A room-by-room lighting plan for power cuts

Put automatic lights where people fall (hall, stairs and landing), a lantern where people gather (living room), a head torch where hands are busy (kitchen), and a small torch by every bed. A typical three-bedroom house can be covered with about eight inexpensive lights, each kept in the room where it will be used.

- [ ] Automatic light in the hall
- [ ] Automatic light on the landing
- [ ] Lantern for the living room
- [ ] Head torch hung in the kitchen
- [ ] Small battery light or glow sticks for the bathroom
- [ ] Torch in every bedside drawer
- [ ] Torch at the fuse box
- [ ] Torch by the front door
- [ ] Spare batteries and a charged power bank
